Dear Facebook friends,

Greetings from Focus on the Family! I wanted to take just a moment to thank you for your support in being a part of this group – as I've said many times, your well-wishes and prayers have sustained Shirley and me over the last three decades. Without friends like you, there would be no Focus on the Family.

I recently had the pleasure of meeting Heather Ducharme, the young woman who started this group. The courage she has displayed in living out her faith and convictions so boldly is inspiring. Knowing that the next generation includes godly, passionate young people like Heather gives me great hope for the future of our nation. It is on them the future of the vital institution of the family will depend.

Thank you again for your continued willingness to stand for God's Truths in a culture that increasingly rejects them.

Blessings,
